HISTORICAL FACTS

The name Fort Chiswell comes from a frontier fort built in 1758 as an outpost during the French and Indian War.

James William Archer (Born May 25, 1932 in Max Meadows, Virginia) is a former Major League Baseball pitcher who played for two seasons with the Kansas City Athletics. He threw left-handed and batted right.

In 1745, Col. John Buchanan was chief surveyor for the Loyal Company of Virginia and was traveling west down a version of the Wilderness Trail to examine the lands he, in the name of the land company, had jurisdiction over along its course. He stopped at William Mack's home at today's Max Meadows, which (though transliterated) were named after him.
